CONGRATULATIONS

If you happened to be watching the Rotary Club Telethon on Sunday morning (at about 5:20am) you would have seen McBrides very own Sara Bressette singing a song she wrote herself. It was a job well done.

BABY TIP

The Security Blanket- Cut a favourite blanket in half- early, as soon as the child becomes attached to it- and whisk the dirty half away for laundering when he or she doesn't see you. With luck, the child will never realize there are two blankets. Such security objects help ease the transition to independence and symbolize your child's ability to develop an interest in things outside himself or herself.

POLICE REPORT

McBride RCMP received a report of a green rubber maid container blowing out of a vehicle east of McBride on Highway 16. The container contains personal items belonging to the owner. Any one finding the container is asked to turn it and its contents into the McBride Detachment for return to the owner.

McBride RCMP received a report from a local person advising that they had received a phone call from someone who stated that they were a bank auditor and requested that the individual provide them with their credit card number. Fortunately our citizen refused to provide this information and very likely saved some credit card debts. Banks will conduct telephone surveys periodically however they will not seek account, credit card or pin numbers or information. Should you receive such a call refuse to provide the information, terminate the call and notify your local police.

McBride RCMP would like to advise the public that calls which are directed to the Prince George Dispatch Centre are now on a new phone system. When a call is placed and redirected to Prince George, please remain on the telephone after you hear a click. You have not been disconnected.

Quote of the Week
