FACTS ABOUT CHINA

Did you know that China is currently developing eight Calgary-sized cities to show off to the world at the Beijing Olympics in 2008.

China will have 82,077 km in its national highway system by 2008. Two years ago, that figure was 28,000. Seventeen years ago, that number was 275. (By way of comparison, our American friends have 75,000 km in their superb national highway system.)

There are 300 car manufacturing plants currently running in China. Everyone from BMW to GM has a foothold there. China, with about 1.4 billion citizens, is home to about one-fifth of Earth's total population. Close-at-hand India has one billion citizens.

Over the past quarter-century China's annual growth rate was 9.4%. That's four times higher than the growth rate of the so-called developed world over the same period.
