MCBRIDE HEALTH UNIT

October 31st is an exciting day for children and families. Costumes, candy, and community gatherings can be very fun. Halloween is also a time to enforce healthy eating habits and maintain a healthy balance. Treats do not have to be sweet. Your family can think of alternative fun prizes or treats to give away this hallow's eve. How about: sugarless gum, fruit juice boxes, fruit leathers, raisins, packaged nuts and seeds, pretzels, packs of crackers, or plain popcorn. Kids enjoy getting prizes as well; decorative pencils or erasers for school, a book of stickers, or temporary tattoos. Chocolate and more sugary candy is nice to get, but remember to eat these treats in moderation. Parents can help their children manage their treats. Parents can ensure that their children are eating their regular snacks and meals before eating treats. Parents can help their children manage their treats by setting aside amounts and organizing times that your child eats their treats. Learning to manage treats is a part of healthy eating. Finally, this extra sugar can cause tooth decay. Be sure to brush your teeth at least twice a day with Fluoride toothpaste to protect your teeth against cavities. Remember to have fun and make healthy choices this Halloween!
