Join author Jay Sherwood for a photographic journey through north and central BC with legendary surveyor Frank Swannell. Relive the final adventures of Swannell and his crew. See and hear about the colourful characters they met and worked with, like Skook Davidson, Charles Bedaux and One-Armed Brown.

Swannell didn't survey in the McBride area. However, one of his crew members for four years was the famous packer Skook Davidson. Skook and shorty Haynes had adjoining traplines in the McGregor River area from 1929 to 1934. Skook sent Swannell some pictures of his trapping and they are in Swannell's photo albums.

Shorty Haynes also worked on Swannell's crew in 1929. Hopefully people in McBride will recognize the location for some of Skook's photos in the McGregor river area.
