BETTER TO THE EDITOR

I have lived in McBride for many years. Time and time again I have been witness to the outpouring of support from the community when someone suffers a loss of a loved one, an illness or some other life changing event. However, on September 10th a young man suffering from some type of health issues was wandering down Main Street. I did not actually see this happening but for an hour afterward I heard repeated accounts of this man's appearance and behaviour. It was sadly apparent that many found this to be a source of amusement rather than a situation that required compassion and understanding. Perhaps we would all be wise to remember "There but for the Grace of God go I". -Anonymous.
